

CONNECTIONS GUIDE

SPRING/SUMMER 2025

Letter from the Executive Director

Connections. I love the name of this new product because it says so much about the core mission and values of the Economic Alliance. We exist as a membership organization because business leaders decided to create and sustain their own go-to entity to focus on services, programs, events and initiatives the business community values most.

With such a diverse economy, what any particular business values can vary a lot. If you're Collins Aerospace or Transamerica or a large community bank or insurance broker, there will be certain things you value about the Economic Alliance. If you're an upstart service company, a small subcontractor or a retail shopkeeper, you probably value a very different set of programs and services of ours.

Serving 1,200 diverse members leaves us with an extremely broad mission. From the fun of Farmers Markets to the grind of legislative and regulatory review. From individualized efforts to get economic incentives for a specific project to the broad advocacy for "Buy Local" movements. From reactive programs to help small businesses in the face of natural disaster or pandemic panic to the proactive constant evolution of foundational programs like Leadership for Five Seasons. From the moment-in-time support for businesses needing to connect to problem-solving resources to the sustained efforts on generational initiatives like the school bond referendum.

At their core, every one of these things serves our mission to drive economic, workforce and population growth strategies and to help businesses succeed. Take that broad mission a level deeper, and every one of these things achieves its purpose through connections.

And when we connect with others, we listen and learn from others. As we face an increasingly hostile political and social environment in which too many have lost the art of listening and learning, that's certainly a good thing, too.

Lastly, this Connections Guide is also something of an experiment, and we'd like your feedback. A printed membership directory like this existed for many years. We transitioned away from it as digital resources became more common. We have an up-to-date membership directory available to you online at cedarrapids.org/membership/directory/ For some, though, this handy printed reference might make it more usable. Do you prefer digital or print? Or both? What can we do to make your connections to other Economic Alliance members even easier?

Sincerely,

Doug Neumann
Executive Director

Cedar Rapids Downtown Farmers Market Celebrates 20th Season

Two decades of fresh food, local pride, and community connection

For 20 summers, the Cedar Rapids Downtown Farmers Market has turned the heart of the city into a celebration of all things local. What began as a grassroots effort with a few dozen vendors has flourished into one of the largest open-air markets in the Midwest, welcoming on average 14,000 visitors each market and serving as a Saturday morning tradition for residents and visitors alike.

Now entering its milestone 20th season, the Market is more than a place to buy produce—it's a symbol of community resilience, local entrepreneurship, and shared pride in downtown Cedar Rapids.

Jule Day
Director of Marketing
& Communications

"It's always been about more than just shopping," said Jule Day, Marketing and Communications Director for the Cedar Rapids Metro Economic Alliance. "The Market creates space for connections—between neighbors, small businesses, artists, and growers. It's become part of the city's rhythm."

In 2024, more than 200 vendors participated in the market, offering everything from fresh produce and baked goods to handmade crafts and ready-to-eat meals. The variety reflects the diversity and creativity of the region's makers and entrepreneurs. Live music, local performances, and family-friendly activities turn each market into a full-sensory experience.

The Economic Alliance, which organizes the market, has continuously worked to evolve and expand its reach. New partnerships, accessibility improvements, and a focus on sustainability have all been part of the Market's growth strategy. Recent efforts have included waste-reduction initiatives, increased vendor training, and enhanced promotional campaigns to bring in even more regional foot traffic.

Adding to this year's celebration is another milestone: the 10th Market After Dark. What started as an exciting experiment has grown into a signature late-summer event, transforming downtown into a vibrant nighttime festival filled with lights, music, and community energy for 32,000 people. It's one of the most anticipated events of the season and a perfect complement to the daytime market series.

In honor of both milestones, the Economic Alliance is also introducing a brand-new experience: Gathered & Grown: A Feast of Five Seasons. This one-of-a-kind, farm-to-table dining event will take place downtown in August and brings together local chefs, farmers, and community members to celebrate the region's flavors and the legacy of the Market.

As the opening bell rings on the 2025 season, there's plenty to reflect on—and even more to look forward to. The Downtown Farmers Market continues to be a source of economic vitality and cultural vibrancy, drawing people into the core of the city and strengthening the local ecosystem with every transaction and handshake.

It's not just about the produce—it's about the people.

AMBASSADORS Celebrate BUSINESS WINS & MAKE CONNECTIONS

If you've ever seen a giant pair of scissors at a ribbon cutting, you've likely seen the bright smiles and signature red coats of the Cedar Rapids Metro Economic Alliance Ambassadors—a dedicated group of volunteers who play a vital role in welcoming and supporting local businesses. Their presence is both symbolic and practical, offering a warm welcome to new entrepreneurs, celebrating long-standing establishments, and strengthening community connections across the region.

Pam Logue
Member Relationship
Manager

Ambassadors participate in more than 100 events annually, including ribbon cuttings, groundbreakings, and grand openings. Whether welcoming new businesses to the community or recognizing significant milestones such as expansions and anniversaries, Ambassadors are often the first to formally acknowledge and celebrate each organization's contribution to the region.

"Ambassadors serve as an extension of the Economic Alliance's mission to advance economic growth and foster a strong sense of community," said Pam Logue, Member Relationship Manager at the Economic Alliance.

Business owners often share how meaningful it is to be recognized in a public and positive way. Whether it's a new entrepreneur opening their doors for the first time or a company celebrating decades of success, the presence of Ambassadors elevates the moment and helps spread the word.

Ambassadors are also connectors. They represent a wide range of industries and bring their own networks and knowledge to every interaction. Many keep in touch with the businesses they meet, offering support, referrals, or encouragement long after the ribbon is cut.

"Over the last five years, I have never regretted volunteering as an ambassador for the Cedar Rapids Metro Economic Alliance," shares Nicole Schroeder, and Economic Alliance Ambassador. "Our group of ambassadors has become my friends. It is an honor and privilege to be a small part of so many big moments in our region. Whether it's showing up with giant scissors or a golden shovel, we always bring our smiles and support for the leaders in our community".

Applications to become an Ambassador open twice a year, in March and September. Any employee who has been with a current Economic Alliance member business for at least one year is encouraged to apply. As the Economic Alliance moves forward, Ambassadors will continue to be a welcoming presence at events and a reliable voice for local business.

"Every ribbon we cut is a reminder that our community is growing," Logue said. "And it's an honor to be part of those moments."

DRIVING BUSINESS GROWTH

THE ECONOMIC ALLIANCE'S ROLE IN REGIONAL ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

At the Cedar Rapids Metro Economic Alliance, economic development is a hands-on, daily commitment. We're focused on strengthening the business climate, attracting new investment, supporting expansion, and helping companies overcome challenges so they can grow and succeed right here.

In early 2025, two global tech leaders—Google and QTS Data Centers—received approval to build new facilities in Big Cedar Industrial Park, a large industrial zone in southwest Cedar Rapids. Both projects are expected to be operational by 2026. Cedar Rapids was chosen for its strong infrastructure, workforce, proximity to major business centers, and energy support. These investments are a significant step forward in growing the region's presence as a technology hub.

Ron Corbett
VP Economic Development

"We're not just watching growth happen—we're helping drive it," said Ron Corbett, Vice President of Economic Development at the Economic Alliance. "Each one of these projects represents years of planning, collaboration, and follow-through. And they all send a clear message: Cedar Rapids is open for business."

New development is also reshaping the city's entertainment and tourism offerings. AC by Marriott recently broke ground in the evolving Kingston Yard development, where it will anchor a vibrant corridor between Big Grove Brewery and Pickle Palace. The hotel will feature 123 rooms, meeting space, and a signature bar—all within walking distance of the heart of downtown.

Meanwhile, community vision continues to take shape in public infrastructure. The ConnectCR Alliant Energy LightLine—an illuminated pedestrian bridge connecting the east and the west sides of the river—will soon rise where a railroad bridge was lost to the 2008 flood. The project not only improves connectivity, it symbolizes resilience and the region's forward momentum.

Our work behind the scenes helps make projects like these possible. Through targeted business outreach meetings, our team meets one-on-one with companies to understand their goals and find solutions to barriers. In 2023 alone, we conducted over 100 meetings—making sure businesses feel supported, connected, and ready to grow.

We're also aligning efforts across the region through the Collaborative Growth Plan, a strategic blueprint that tackles shared priorities like workforce, broadband, housing, and transportation. Tools like our Workforce Solutions Guide help employers find the right talent strategies and resources, bridging gaps and building sustainable pipelines.

Public policy plays a critical role too. By joining forces with Greater Iowa City Inc., we've unified our voices to advocate for pro-business legislation at the state and federal level. Representing more than 2,000 members and stakeholders, our joint agenda ensures regional priorities are heard where decisions are made.

"Our team shows up early, stays late, and keeps moving until something happens," Corbett said. "Because at the end of the day, when businesses grow, so does our region."

CONNECTIONS MATTER: MAKING THE MOST OF YOUR MEMBERSHIP

Membership in the Cedar Rapids Metro Economic Alliance is more than a logo on your website. It's an open door to the people, programs, and partnerships that help businesses thrive.

Whether you're a small business, a mid-sized company, or a major employer, the Economic Alliance provides tools to grow your visibility, build your network, ability to provide guidance and feedback, and stay informed on what's shaping the region.

Anne Laugen
Member Development
Manager

"Connections matter because businesses don't grow in isolation," said Anne Laugen, Membership Development Manager at the Economic Alliance. "We help members make the right connections at the right time—whether they're looking for clients, collaborators, or community support."

Members gain access to more than 50 networking opportunities annually, including BizMix, Speed Networking, and signature events like Good Morning Cedar Rapids! and the Annual Meeting. These experiences are designed to build strong relationships and give businesses a chance to stand out.

Beyond events, the Economic Alliance delivers value through our core functions of business support, community development, economic development, workforce, and public policy. Through partnerships, outreach, and targeted strategies, we work to attract, retain, and grow businesses in the region. We collaborate with regional and state partners on a wide range of business support efforts and lead initiatives like the Workforce Solutions Guide and the Collaborative Growth Plan to strengthen talent pipelines and support long-term workforce needs.

Members also benefit from our joint advocacy work with Greater Iowa City, Inc. Together, our 2,000+ members, partners, and stakeholders present unified state and federal public policy agendas—giving our region a stronger, clearer voice on the issues that impact business success.

"We introduce you to the people and businesses that can create real opportunities for you, your team and your organization," Laugen said. "As a member, you're often the first we turn to when someone asks for a recommendation."

Members can also take advantage of advertising opportunities, serve on issue-focused councils, and participate in impactful events like the Downtown Farmers Market. These platforms keep businesses visible, connected, and engaged in regional progress.

"The great thing about your membership is that it's what you make of it" Laugen added. "When you get involved, you'll quickly realize just how valuable those relationships can be."
