Bloomsbury Farm Unveils 2026 Corn Maze Celebrating Seven Generations

An Iowa family farm is celebrating its seventh generation by putting its newest family member in this year's corn maze.

ATKINS, Iowa — September 4, 2026 — Bloomsbury Farm will unveil its highly anticipated 2026 corn maze design, a special tribute celebrating seven generations on the family farm.

Spanning several acres, this year's maze features Briar David, the seventh generation of the family, in a design carefully cut into the farm's cornfield. Each fall, the corn maze draws thousands of visitors to Bloomsbury Farm and has become one of eastern Iowa's favorite fall traditions.

"Our family is incredibly proud to celebrate the arrival of the seventh generation on our family farm," said Sammy Petersen, co-owner and manager of Bloomsbury Farm. "Briar David was born on November 7, 2025, just after our 2025 fall season came to a close. Pat and I look forward to raising Briar with a love for farming and agriculture, while continuing to build a place where families can make lasting memories together."

"This year's maze design is especially meaningful for our family and our entire team," Petersen added. "It reminds us of the role each generation has played in our story and the legacy that has shaped Bloomsbury Farm into what it is today."

The 2026 corn maze opens to the public Friday, September 11, and will remain open through October 31. Daytime fall activities are offered Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays throughout the season.

In addition to exploring the corn maze, guests can enjoy a full lineup of fall favorites, including hayrides, pumpkin picking, farm attractions, food venues, pig races, the Corn Palace and more.
